SNOW PLOWS SENT INTO ACTION ON STATE HIGHWAYS

Report Heaviest November
Snowfall in Over Two Decades

FIGHT SNOW AND ICE

Will Probably Strike New York and New England
During the Night

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 10.—Western Pennsylvania today sent snow plows into action to clear truck highways. Reports of the heaviest November snowfall in more than two decades were recorded in many districts of the State.

Although snow flurries whipped around Harrisburg and Philadelphia, little difficulty was encountered in the central and eastern sections of the State in keeping traffic moving.

Temperatures above freezing were climbing slowly in Harrisburg and Philadelphia.

In the western and northern sections of the State an entirely different story was being told today as emergency crews fought to free roads of snow and ice that formed when temperatures dropped to the 20's and below.

Weather bureau officials said snow and cold weather were sweeping northeastward and would probably strike metropolitan New York and the New England district during the night. Continued cold weather was predicted today and tonight in Pittsburgh, although in Harrisburg and Philadelphia no additional snow was expected.

NEW HOPE, Nov. 10.—A permanent organization was formed by the Delaware Valley Protective Association, at a meeting in Phillips' Mill.

Officers elected were: President, William F. Taylor, Lumberville; vice-president, C. A. Sienkiewicz, New Hope; treasurer, Frederick W. Hare, Uhlertown; secretary, William J. Stover, Erwinna; directors, Thomas Marshall, New Hope; J. Cooper Piddock, New Hope; Miss Grace Miller, Center Bridge; Graham Starr, Lumberville; E. R. Sherbaum, Point Pleasant; Thomas B. Stockham, Morrisville; Charles P. Wilber, Somerset, N. J.; William H. Blackwell, Titusville, N. J.; Andrew Foltz, Lumberville, N. J.; Fred H. Spitz, Frenchtown, N. J.; William Tinsman, Lumberville, Pa.; Edward A. Briggs, Newtown; Stace B. Brown, Newtown; William W. Chambers, Smithtown; Russell Van Ness Black, New Hope; Miss Dorothy Ely, New Hope.

Senator Clarence J. Buckman attended the meeting and expressed the opinion that the association would be of great assistance to all of the valley residents in keeping the valley as a residential section and preserving its natural beauty. He said he felt all officers representing the people would be glad for the opportunity to cooperate with such an organization. His talk was greatly enjoyed and appreciated by the audience.

J. Carroll Molloy, of Pineville, who has been keenly interested in the movement, read a paper dealing with enhancing real estate values by protecting properties by certain restrictions.

William W. Chambers, of Smithtown, showed his motion pictures of the canal and river scenes, and between reels Reba Dale Hare, accompanied by Mrs. Marie Paxson, sang several selections.

The business meeting decided to reduce the dues and attempt to build up a membership of 5,000 residents of the valley to boost the movement.

Farm School Herd Makes Record for United States

With their average yield during September of 1900 pounds of 4.29% milk, and 42.84 pounds of butterfat, the 11 cows in the herd owned by National Farm School, near Doylestown, led the United States in production, according to Advanced Registry Superintendent, W. A. Kyle, of the National Ayrshire Breeders' Association at Brandon, Vermont.

These cows were tested under the Ayrshire Herd Test rules, which require that every animal be included, regardless of her age or stage of lactation. The highest cow of the month was Grand Master's Marie Jane with 1359 pounds of milk and 60.20 pounds of butterfat.

STOCKHAM WINS BY HANDSOME MAJORITY

Democrats Put to Rout in One of Heaviest Elections Ever Held

NOLAN ALSO A WINNER

MORRISVILLE, Nov. 10.—Mayor Thomas B. Stockham and the entire Republican ticket were elected to office Tuesday by a majority of two to one. Neal Nolan, who was high man on the ticket and was re-elected tax collector by a majority of more than four to one and Dr. W. H. Kunsman, who won as Justice of the Peace, had a majority of nearly three to one.

It was a clear sweep for the Republicans and while the Democrats, for the first time in many years, had a complete ticket in the field and waged the hardest fight they have in years, the latter did not win a single office. The closest contest was in the Fourth Ward, one of the districts where the Democratic forces put forth their strongest efforts. In this ward Frank Braker was re-elected to Council by a narrow margin of 29 votes over his Democratic opponent, William Provost. Braker was the only member of Council to seek re-election. The other Councilmen-elect are new candidates; All the Republican candidates were cut in the Fourth Ward with the exception of Tax Collector Neal Nolan and Justice of the Peace Dr. W. H. Kunsman.

There were 1,666 votes cast in the election, one of the largest ever polled. Nolan polled 1,293 votes in the borough, while his opponent, Walter Phillips, received 339 votes. Dr. Kunsman received 1,167 votes and his opponent, Walter Phillips, polled 423.

Mayor Stockham received 1,061 votes in the borough and his opponent, Benjamin Beach, polled 540 ballots. For school director, J. Leslie White, who ran for the two-year term, defeated Raymond Clemens, his Democratic opponent, by a vote of 1,094 to 446. Alvin R. Pratt, with 1,055 votes, and William S. Lair, with 1,013 votes, were elected over their Democratic opponents, Joseph A. Mara with 483 votes and Mrs. Beatrice Temple with 502 votes. Leonard Perry was elected borough auditor with a vote of 1,089 against his Democratic opponent, Percy Cooper, who polled 461 votes.

For Council, Elwood Kohl was elected in the First Ward with a majority of 109 votes. Kohl polled 228 votes while Ellis Tettmer, Democrat, polled 119 ballots.

In the Second Ward, Paul Nicholas, was elected with a vote of 233 against Herbert LaRue, Democrat, with 174 votes. In the Third Ward, John Sumner was elected with 370 votes against Leland Goodwin, Democrat, with 196 votes.

Arrest Four in Bethlehem In Connection With Robbery

Four men were taken into custody yesterday and will be questioned today in connection with the robbery of the home of Dr. Edgar M. Blew, Harra Road, October 29th.

The quartette was apprehended at Bethlehem by Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo, State Trooper Brace and Constable Barron, of Springfield Township.

The men detained are: Peter Coaches, Coopersburg; Philip Breisbach, Charles Gloss, and Edward Hottelstein, Bethlehem.

The men were living in a property almost untenable. The officers had to force their way in and as they entered all lights were extinguished. In a search of the premises a third basement was found where was located a still and some liquor. Gloss was found hiding beneath a pile of lumber. The still was turned over to the Bethlehem police and the four men were taken to Doylestown for questioning.

FLAMING PLANE CARRIES FOUR TO THEIR DEATH

Air Liner Crashes On Wooded
Hillside Near Portland,
Oregon

SIX ARE SAVED

PORTLAND, Oregon, Nov. 10.—Four passengers of a United Air Lines plane were carried to a flaming death early today when the air liner crashed in the wooded hillside in Willamette Heights, exclusive Portland residential district during a heavy fog. The dead were: Al A. Davis, Seattle, pilot of the plane; Dr. R. C. Coffey, prominent Portland physician and head of the Coffey Clinic; Arthur C. Prostler, of Chicago; and Herman R. Cohen, Portland. Four other passengers, co-pilot Woodworth and the stewardess were saved without serious injury.

Co-pilot Woodworth, cut and dazed, fought his way through the fogged hills and deep underbrush for two and a half hours before he made his way to Thurman Road and aroused the resident who telephoned for ambulances.

Meanwhile, at the scene of the wreck, Dr. John Straumsjord, a passenger, battled desperately but in vain, to save the life of his partner, Dr. Coffey. Both physicians were on a mission of mercy. They were bound for Medford, Oregon, to submit to a blood transfusion in an attempt to save the life of a fellow doctor who at one time had saved the life of Dr. Coffey.

No Excess Weight On The Macon; Sacrifice All But Strength, Stability

ALUMINUM UTENSILS

By Ellis H. Martin
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

ABOARD U. S. S. MACON ON ITS MAIDEN PACIFIC COAST FLIGHT ALONG THE CALIFORNIA COAST. Nov. 10.—(INS)—There is no excess weight on the Macon.

Everything has been sacrificed except strength and stability to eliminate unnecessary weight.

The duraluminum frame, the fabric gas cells, the special covering material and a dozen other features impress you with this.

When you sit down to eat, the aluminum knives, forks and spoons remind you of this elemental structural rule again. Featherweight dishes carry it a step further. But there is nothing light about the food Uncle Sam places in these light dishes. Your crisp salad, tasty roast pork, well-mashed potatoes, green peas, coffee, and pie are on a par with the food on any ocean going liner. And there is no lack of it on board this remarkable ship in either the officers' or the enlisted men's messes.

Arising from the luncheon table—reached incidentally by a perilous trip to the greenhorn along a narrow "catwalk" your sense of satisfied detachment from the world below is shattered by the raucous tooting of a freighter's fog signal which comes booming through the fog blanket below. Possibly the vessel through a rift in the fog not visible from above has sighted the dirigible and is sending a pleasant "hello" from the water below. More likely she is feeling her way blindly through a dense fog which the Macon has conquered by surmounting.

The brilliant sun which has been high in the heavens begins to drop and the temperature aboard ship declines as its rays become less direct. Overcoats that were popular at noon-time have disappeared and some shirt sleeves are seen in mid-afternoon. But towards sunset coats and sweaters reappear.

There are few idle moments for the officers on duty. Voluminous information is jotted down in the various logs. At every moment the exact position is plotted. The enlisted men at the helms are under the constant guidance of the officers on duty in the control room.

There is a constant checking of apparatus, an unending measurement with intricate devices of every element entering into the stability of the ship. The big naval sky cruiser proceeds southward so smoothly at her elevation of 2,000 feet that these precautions seem unnecessary to the greenhorn aboard. But it does not take a keen eye to determine that Commander A. H. Dreesel and his fourteen officers leave nothing to chance.

You note the youngish appearance of the officers from Captain Dreesel down and at the same time note the air of responsibility and efficiency that attaches to each one. Your confidence rises as you talk to them and see the manner in which they handle this air monster.

You are impressed by the extensive technical knowledge all have on the subject of lighter-than-air craft. They receive with jubilant approval the news that the navy will seek funds to construct two dirigibles greater than the Macon.

You learn from Captain H. E. Shoemaker, commandant of Moffett field, that "The rigid airship is particularly adapted for operations on the Pacific." The great area of that vast body of water and the long coast line makes necessary the use of aircraft for reconnaissance purposes.

With its fifty-knot speed, its long radius of action and its excellent radio facilities, he informs you, such a ship as the Macon can in "one period of daylight—twelve hours—search an area of ocean of 57,000 square miles" against 15,000 square miles as a good day's scouting stint for the swift fleet cruiser of the water.

This is only one of numerous important functions for which the rigid air ship is especially well fitted.

(The concluding article of this series will detail operation of the U. S. S. Macon over a dense fog blanket.)

LIBRARY BENEFIT IS ARRANGED FOR NOV. 17

Is First Affair of Kind Since
Library Was Started Here
Seventeen Years Ago

ASK PUBLIC SUPPORT

The first entertainment which the Bristol Free Library has ever conducted for the purpose of raising funds, since its establishment 17 years ago, will occur on Friday evening next, November 17th.

On that evening at St. James' parish house from eight until 12 o'clock, there will be a variety of entertainment—orchestra music, dancing, numerous card games. There will be presentation of fine prizes for winners at cards; and tasty refreshments will be sold.

In a check of the extent to which the library's books have been used, it is shown that over 500,000 have been read during the past 17 years, making an average of 30,000 yearly. These figures show the large number who patronize the Bristol library, people from this borough and from surrounding towns.

During the past year many of the library books have been rebound, and more funds are needed with which to purchase new books. The public is thus to be given an opportunity next Friday evening to take part in this project which benefits people in all walks of life, and those from all sections. The library will benefit by the affair, and in turn those who patronize the library.

PLAN TO PROCEED IN IMPROVING FILTRATION

Made Possible by Vote for Bond Issue in Sellers-ville Elections

VOTE WAS 647 TO 196

SELLERSVILLE, Nov. 10.—It will be possible to proceed with improvements to the filtration plant at the borough water works here, in the near future, owing to votes on Tuesday by residents in favor of a loan for that purpose.

Voters in the borough had been asked to take action on a $35,000 bond issue for the improvement of the filtration plant and when the final count was taken last night it was learned that 647 of the borough's voters were in favor of the bond issue and that 196 opposed it. More than 800 out of a possible 1400 voters turned out yesterday.

The borough's residents showed their favor for the repeal of the 18th Amendment by casting 578 votes for it and 202 of the town's voters were against repeal. The returns showed that 612 persons were in favor of Sunday sports and 307 opposed them.

When it came to the municipal election it was found at the closing of the polls last night that every Republican candidate with but one exception was successful. Dr. Clyde R. Florey, a candidate for school director, was the only successful Democrat. The other successful candidate for this office was W. Mark Bittle, Republican, who polled 417 votes. Dr. Florey received 471 votes. The unsuccessful candidates were Clyde T. Moyer, Republican, who received 399 tallies, and Mary Ambacher, Democrat, who received 301.

The closest contest in the borough was for the office of tax collector; the Republican candidate, Samuel Groff, losing out his Democratic opponent, Raymond E. Klein, by the narrow margin of eight votes. Groff received 416 and Klein 408.

Successful candidates for Borough Council and the number of votes they polled were as follows: William S. Schlichter (R), 479; Roy Stacks (R), 450; George Texter (R), 457; and Ervin Hartman, who was endorsed by both parties, 355 on the Republican ticket and 247 on the Democratic. The unsuccessful candidates for Council, and all Democrats, were as follows: Emerson Ashenbach, 409; Alvin Cressman, 390; and Harry Overbaugh, 365.

Justice of the Peace W. Lee Wilhelm defeated his Democratic opponent, William H. Rufe, Jr., the former receiving 445 and the latter 367. J. A. Kooker, who had held the office of Chief Burgess, was endorsed by both parties and he received a total of 740 tallies.

Talk On Beauty Culture Given Junior Club Group

A talk on beauty culture, accompanied by a demonstration, held the attention of members of Junior Travel Club in the club home, last evening. Miss Winifred Tracy was used as a model by representatives of a company displaying their wares. Miss Zoe Gould introduced the speakers, and the president of the Juniors, Miss Cecelia Garrigue, was in charge of the business meeting.

Several members of the senior club were in attendance, including Mrs. Theodore E. Megarkee, advisor to the Juniors. The young women announce that members of the senior club are welcome at any of their meetings.

Plans are being made for a Christmas dance during the holidays. Refreshments of coffee and cake were served the gathering.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR RAISING OF BOY SCOUT FUND

Minimum Goal Set at $6,000
For This Year's Campaign

PROGRAM IS CURTAILED

Expenses Have Been Cut;
Rooms Offered For Administrative Center

DOYLESTOWN, Nov. 10.—Plans are being completed now for the annual campaign for funds to provide a minimum amount to keep scouting functioning in Bucks county during 1934.

This year the campaign calls for a minimum goal of $6,000 and the intensive drive to raise this amount will take place between November 12 and November 30th. All expenditures throughout the year in Boy Scout work in Bucks county are controlled by the Bucks County Scout Council executive board.

The Scout board is composed of the following well-known citizens: President, Thomas Ross, Doylestown; vice-presidents, V. V. Vansant, Dr. A. J. Strathie, Newtown; J. Puffy Weiss, Doylestown; Arthur Treffinger, Quakertown; C. Wilson Roberts, Churchville; treasurer, J. Purdy Weiss; administration, Edmund H. Lovett, Scout Commissioner, William Burgess, commodore, Thomas B. Stockham, Scout executive, William F. Livermore. Other members of the executive board include George L. Bidwell, Asher B. Biehn, Frederick H. Clymer, Arthur M. Eastburn, Daniel H. Erdman, A. H. Hendricks, Minot J. Hill, Judge Hiram H. Keller, David Landreth, Walter F. Leedom, Henry Palmer, Walter Fitzke, George Ross, Mark Thatcher, Dr. J. Fred Wagner, Carl Wenzel.

"Scouting is doing its part, will you do yours?" is the question the prominent business and professional men on the executive board of the Council are asking.

Scouting has risen to meet the present-day needs, one Scout enthusiast declared today. With very little money to operate, the Bucks County Council has been fighting through the economic storm.

"Our program must have within it boy appeal—without it, we will face disintegration," the same Scout enthusiast declared.

Judge Hiram H. Keller volunteered the use of the basement of his building in Doylestown when the executive board was confronted with insufficient funds to house the county administrative center.

During the year, Scout Executive Livermore has volunteered and accepted a 30 per cent reduction in his salary in order that Scouting can carry on under executive supervision.

To continue only the needed things to operate the Scout Council should have $6,000 for 1934. This is a small sum compared with what should be spent on boys. It is the smallest sum the Council has ever asked for, and with the help of many volunteers, Council members hope to complete the job.

THE PROPER MOVE

Bristol merchants in planning to organize an association to include members from all sections of the Borough are making a move in the proper direction. The lack of such an organization here has cost the merchants many dollars, the total of which has never been computed. Each day it is becoming more and more difficult for the small-town merchant to do business. The stores in the larger cities are constantly encroaching upon his territory.

The loss of business by the small merchant to his larger competitor is due in some degree to the small merchant, himself. He has been slow to adopt the modern system of doing business which has given the city merchant a great advantage.

The city merchant employs large advertising space and circulates these advertisements in the smaller towns, fully realizing the worth of the business to be had, while the home-town merchant sits quietly by and does not advertise because his business shows a falling off.

Another thing which greatly handicaps retaining business in the small town is the fact that merchants in these localities fail to fully co-operate with each other. Many folks, all potential purchasers, can be attracted to a shopping area by the staging of group displays, group bargains and other similar group movements. It is true that on all such occasions each co-operating merchant will not reap direct benefit, but the accumulative benefit will redound to each over a period of time. If the merchant makes real attractive offers to the shopping public and gives full value for value received, business will be attracted to his store which might have gone elsewhere.

CANCER IS CURABLE

That cancer is curable and that the chances of cure are increased by early diagnosis is something that the medical profession has been trying for years to impress upon the public.

The American College of Surgeons recently directed attention to 12,476 five-year cures reported in the United States and Europe, and Dr. Beckwith Whitehouse, of the British radiium commission, declared "The statement that cancer is curable is the greatest contribution the profession can make to the public."

The most promising methods of treatment consist of the use of surgery, the X-ray and radium irradiation.

The cause of this highly fatal disease remains unknown despite long and painstaking research work. Eventually this will be found, which may result in increasing the ratio of cures and even open the way to prevention.

Pending the attainment of this goal, the public individually can aid in keeping down the death rate by remembering that the disease is curable and by seeking competent medical advice promptly where there is a condition pointing to the possibility of cancer. A life may be the price of delay.

CHAPTER FIFTY-SEVEN

Then things began to happen so fast—new things—that before Mom knew it everything was over.

The first was the piece in the paper about Tom's job. It looked so natural to see his picture again with his football suit and the hat on, looking out at Mom so brave and kind of fierce-like. Uncle Louie saw it first and came from downtown with the news. He showed it to Tommy and then gave it to Mom. It said that Big Jeff Randolph had been appointed backfield coach at Thorndyke for the next year and his duties would begin in September. It said that Thorndyke was calling him back to help the head coach because the Pilgrim backfield had lacked punch since Tom had left and it was thought he could teach the young fellows how to do things as he had done.

Uncle Louie stayed for supper and when Pop came in from the factory he hurried up to tell him but Pop went right on taking his shoes off; and when he took off his shirt and started to wash, he told Uncle Louie he was four hours late—that the news had been all over the factory all afternoon; and Uncle Louie said the paper had only been out two hours but Pop just looked at him and said:

"And what did I tell you about them not getting along without him?" Then Pop looked at Tom as if to say that he had a tough time with old codgers like Uncle Louie who didn't know anything about football. Then Pop said: "What's it pay?" And Tom said $3,000 a year; and Pop said, "and you don't have to play—just teach 'em?" and Uncle Louie stepped in and said, "sure, can't you read?" but Pop paid no attention to him; he just said, "that's what I call a job."

That was what Mom called a job, too—particularly because he was going to be a coach and didn't have to play anymore; and it was sure funny to see the people around town, the ones who had razed him and looked down on him and all—they were the very ones who came around shaking his hand and asking him about what kind of a team they were going to have; but Tommy didn't bother much with them, Mom noticed; and it did Mom's heart good to see the ones along the street trying to pretend that they had never said anything against him.

But most of all it did Mom's heart good because it proved that Tommy was great, after all; and now that it was all over she was proud of him for the sensible way he had acted when everybody was down on him. Even after the news was broken he didn't seem excited—he seemed to be studying more than ever about things; and when he got Mom alone one night and she thought he was going to talk about it, she could hardly believe her ears. He was going to stand up for Pete, naturally, and he was asking who was going to be Steve's bridesmaid.

Mom really didn't know; Cousin Emmy had done a lot of talking but Steve hadn't really asked her; but on account of Steve meeting Pete so soon after she came to town and spending most of her spare time with him, Mom didn't know whether she really had any close young girl friend.

"That's what I call a swell job," observed Pop to Tom as Uncle Louie looked on admiringly.

"I figured it might be something like that, Mom; suppose you sound her out as carefully as you can—and if you think she'd really like it, Dorothy will be home by that time."

Mom thought it was sure grand for Tommy to take such an interest and she could see Pete appreciated it, too, and was almost as surprised as Mom—to say nothing of Steve; Mom could see she had been worrying a little, not wanting Cousin Emmy because a young bride wanted a young bridesmaid and not an old scrawny chatterbox who would like as not try to act like they did in the movies and act more important than the bride and all things up generally. Steve was tickled pink and so Tommy said he'd ask Dot and she wrote right back and said she'd be greatly honored; and she said when she'd be home and just to let her know the date.

That was another thing that was bothering everybody—including the gossips along the street. Of course it had leaked out—trust Cousin Emmy for that, Mom thought—and the first time Mom went to the store after that, the three of them were right after her and although Mrs. Farrell didn't say anything Mom could see she had her ears open to catch anything that was said. So Mom said she didn't know the date yet because that depended some on Dorothy.

"Dorothy who?" Mrs. Johnson said. So Mom said Dorothy Whitney and the three of them almost popped the eyes out of their head. "Is it gonna be a double wedding?" Mrs. Flannigan asked quickly; but Mom just smiled and said no, nothing like that but it was natural Dorothy should be the bridesmaid.

"Oh, she's going to stand up with them," Mrs. Johnson said. "I thought maybe since Tommy had a job they might be going to do it, too." But Mom said Dorothy was still in college and anyhow Tom's job had nothing to do with it anyhow because he had known it all along, the only difference being that he didn't know everybody else was so worried about him or he would have told them.

Then they began to throw out hints about getting invited but Mom put them off. Mrs. Flannigan said she supposed they'd be having a big time but Mom said both Steve and Pete was the plain kind and didn't want any fuss; then Mrs. Johnson said, yes, but they'd be having a big meal, anyhow and Mom said she didn't know yet as that would depend on the plans; and Mrs. Flannigan said it was sure to be a lot of work one way or another and for Mom not to be bashful about calling on them to help. So Mom thanked them, knowing all they wanted was to get their nose in some way and not miss anything.

Then Butcher Brown said to be sure and get her stuff from him; and Mrs. Flannigan asked Butcher why he never got married and he said he had a hard time fighting the girls off but he didn't want to make the rest of them sore so that when the ones who got left married somebody else they would be sure to deal with him as a man in business had to be careful; he said he was like Albert, he loved them all; and Albert opened his mouth and yawned and Butcher said if all the men were as smart as Albert they'd all have less trouble—and Mrs. Johnson didn't like it very well as everybody said her man was henpecked and never left the house he didn't have to give excuses.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAMS ARE TO CLASH HERE TODAY

By Jack Orr
(Asst. Press Agent, B. H. S.)

Today on the high school gridiron the mighty Bristol High football machine will clash with Pemberton, the "hard luck" team of New Jersey.

This game looms as a possible repetition of the Temple-West Virginia fray. West Virginia had been beaten four time straight, and Temple expected a "breather," but in this they were mistaken. West Virginia held the Cherry and White to a 13-7 score, barely missing another touchdown in the last minute of play.

Coach M. W. Maister, of Pemberton, builds his offense around the speedy quarterback, Ginnard, and expects to crash through with the first win of the season for Pemberton. They have a fine line, with an average weight of 150 pounds; while the Red and Grey has 146 for its average.

The team as a whole easily outweighs the local gridirers, having 149 for Pemberton, while the Bristol boys are 145. This should be a great game and every local fan should be at the high school field today. Kick-off, 3.45.

PIGSKIN PUNTS

By June

Bristol High took a rebound from its defeat at the hands of the Alumni team and handed the Fallsington High School a 27-0 shellacking.

This week Coach "Bill" Dougherty's proteges will meet the Pemberton High School on the local gridiron. Pemberton has returned to the local schedule after a long layoff.

The High School has a record of four wins, two defeats, and a tie. It has scored a total of 81 points to its opponents 31.

No Bristol team has yet scored a victory over a Doylestown club. Maybe St. Ann's A. A. will turn the tables in their meeting on Sunday.

The Doylestown team is coached by Claude Lodge, former halfback and captain of the Ursinus College team.

Lodge is noted for the booting of his educated toe. Twice this season he has sent drop-kicks from beyond the thirty-yard line to bring his team victory over opponents. His latest feat against Wissahickon was a drop-kick from the thirty-three yard line, twelve feet from the side-lines.

In Doylestown's line-up last season was a player weighing 303 pounds. Whether he will be in Sunday's line-up is not known at this time. But we do know that the two fellows that did all the damage against St. Ann's last season are absent, namely: Zeke, the fullback; and Richer, that flashy end.

Between halves, the American Legion Cadets will drill and parade. The lads will use their new uniforms for the occasion and will pep up the crowd while the players are resting.

The largest crowd of the season is expected to cheer the local club to victory as they are still unbeaten and haven't had a touchdown scored against them.

The St. Ann's team has been offered a game in the Atlantic City Auditorium against the Sylvania Club of that city. Whether the management will take this game or not will be decided later.

The Farmans were stood up at Roselyn last Sunday. When they arrived they found their opponents playing a team from Conshohocken. The Farmans play the Kensington Arrows Sunday.

The Y. M. A. battled the Vasey A. C. to a scoreless standstill last week. The one-legged center, Neeley, was again in action, playing with the Vasey team.

Although Marvin Collins' toe gave the Trojans a 3-0 lead against Germantown, "Bill" Gallagher, former West Catholic High halfback, spoiled the day for the lads of Henny Morgan by scoring a touchdown which beat them, 6-3.

Collins was one of the best place-kickers developed in the local high school. While under Townsend's tutoring, Collins was always a sure-bet for the extra point after a touchdown.

IT TAKES

ALL 3

TO MAKE THIS POWERFUL MOTOR FUEL

1 BETTER CRUDES

The gasoline made from certain crude oils has far better characteristics than that made from others. ATLANTIC carefully selects only the very finest crudes for the production of ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH PLUS.

2 BETTER REFINING

The "cracking" process . . . as applied by ATLANTIC . . . produces a more powerful and all-round satisfactory fuel than any other method known. Because of its expense, however, only a few companies use it.

3 BETTER ANTI-KNOCK

This great fuel also contains the finest anti-knock fluid known, lead (tetra-ethyl) . . . formerly used only in premium-priced gasolines. Another plus-value. Now it's yours at no extra cost.
